Course information

Course prerequisites
Knowledge in intermediate microeconomics (at the level of Microeconomics II) is recommended.

Learning objectives
- To understand the main theoretical arguments relating to government policies
- To apply microeconomic concepts to evaluate the pros and cons of specific economic policy proposals
- To present the main insights from an economic policy evaluation in a competent and concise manner

Course content
Public economics is the study of government economic policies. It mainly focuses on efficiency and equity arguments for (and against) government interventions, on important categories of government expenditures, and on how governments should design their tax system in order to finance their expenditures in an efficient and “fair” manner. It covers the following topics:

1. Introduction and motivation
2. Social welfare and the objectives of government
3. Markets, market failures and government interventions
4. Inequality and redistribution
5. Social insurance
6. Externalities and environmental policies
7. Principles of taxation
8. Theory of taxation
9. Tax avoidance and tax evasion
10. Fiscal federalism
11. Behavioral public economics

The course is applied in nature, but builds on microeconomic concepts. It is based on the textbook by Richard Tresch and complemented by discussions on current economic policy issues in Switzerland and elsewhere. Students are strongly encouraged to participate in these discussions.
Course structure
Up to 27 students: in classroom teaching with recording available on Canvas. More than 27 students: partial in classroom teaching with alternating groups, live and with recordings available on Canvas. Students will receive more detailed information on StudyNet once the bidding has ended.

Term papers

Term papers must be written without anyone else’s help and in accordance with the known quotation standards, and they must contain a declaration of authorship which is a published template in StudentWeb.

The documentation of sources (quotations, bibliography) has to be done throughout and consistently in accordance with the chosen citation standard such as APA or MLA.

For papers in law, the legal standard is recommended (by way of example, cf. FORSTMOSSER, P., OGOREK R. et SCHINDLER B., Juristisches Arbeiten: Eine Anleitung für Studierende, newest edition respectively, or according to the recommendations of the Law School).

The indications of the sources of information taken over verbatim or in paraphrase (quotations) must be integrated into texts in accordance with the precepts of the applicable quotation standard, while informative and bibliographical notes must be added as footnotes (recommendations and standards can be found, for example, in METZGER, C., Lern- und Arbeitsstrategien, newest edition respectively).

For any work written at the HSG, the indication of the page numbers is mandatory independent of the chosen citation standard. Where there are no page numbers in sources, precise references must be provided in a different way: titles of chapters or sections, section numbers, acts, scenes, verses, etc.
