Course information

Course prerequisites
This course is open to students from following programs:

- Master of Arts in Strategy and International Management (14 places available)
- Master of Arts in International Affairs (10 places available)
- Guest students at the Master’s Level (6 places available).

The allocation to this course is organized via a special application process (SBV) and not via the regular bidding process. SIM, MIA and guest students at the Master’s level may apply by sending an email to boryana.milova@unisg.ch from 23 August 2018, 15:00, until 10 September 2018, noon, mentioning their matriculation number, full name and program.

Students are allocated to the course on first-come, first-serve basis. As of 10 September 2018, noon, the allocation to the course is final and changes are not possible anymore.

Course content

The two main blocks, though different by topical focus, complement and build on each other. While in the first the focus is on learning how to increase one's personal impact as a future leader within the dynamics of a global, diverse and multi-faceted context, the second block zooms into aspects that determine how to succeed as a business leader in the context of emerging markets and the interface to so-called informal and formal markets. In the following, an overview:

In the first block, participants explore the contours of the kind of leadership mindset and attitude as well as key principles and qualities that are required to successfully cope with the new challenges of our time. Based on research and practice-proven frameworks, students learn a distinct set of concrete behavioral strategies that enables them to boost their leadership effectiveness, thereby gain additional personal confidence and develop deeper insights of the new priorities and responsibilities of rising leaders of tomorrow.

Block I objectives:
- Exploring one's own leader potential, unearthing and challenging core assumptions
- Understanding the nature of social/corporate transformation and the link to leadership as a main driver
- Learning research-based and practice-proven behavioral dimensions and strategies to boost personal leadership effectiveness, especially in a global, diverse environment

In the second block, students learn about incorporating social/environmental issues (also discussed as sustainability) into business strategy in order to improve competitiveness in emerging markets. The focus of this block is not on... social/environmental issues per se. It is on strategy and how solutions to social/environmental challenges can be incorporated into a business strategy for increased competitiveness in emerging markets.

Block II objectives:
- Learning about informal markets when aiming for business success in emerging markets
- Learning a framework of Inclusive Strategies that provide orientation when reflecting action between formal and informal markets
- Understanding main issues discussed in the research on strategy in informal, emerging markets
- Reflecting insights in respect to leadership as a main transformation driver in emerging markets

Course structure
The course will be carried out in a kick-off session early in the term and two block sessions in the fall break. Core elements are group presentations, lectures and plenary discussions, complemented by creative group learning formats, guest speakers, interviews and self-assessments.

2. Block I (Aschari): The Global Leader
   a. Building personal leadership capacity to succeed in diverse environments
   b. Corporate transformation and how to lead future-oriented organizations
   c. Learning behavioral key strategies to increase personal leadership effectiveness
3. Block II (Jäger): Managerial Effectiveness
   a. Distinct leadership challenges in emerging countries
   b. Learning from organizations acting in emerging markets of Latin America
   c. Management in informal markets (market actors from the Base of the Pyramid) and their interface with formal markets

Course literature
Compulsory and supplementary readings including cases will be provided on StudyNet at a later stage. Some paper-based readings will be made available, as well.

Additional course information
We are looking forward to an inspiring, interactive and thought-provoking class. This requires active, open-minded and motivated participants, that dare to imagine the future, ask questions, voice their opinions and contribute to lively and constructive discussions, debates and presentations.

Term papers

- Term papers must be written without anyone else's help and in accordance with the known quotation standards, and they must contain a declaration of authorship.
- The documentation of sources (quotations, bibliography) has to be done throughout and consistently in accordance with the APA or MLA standards. The indications of the sources of information taken over verbatim or in paraphrase (quotations) must be integrated into the text in accordance with the precepts of the applicable quotation standard, while informative and bibliographical notes must be added as footnotes (recommendations and standards can be found, for example, in METZGER, C. (2017), Lern- und Arbeitsstrategien (12th ed., Cornelsen Schweiz).
- For any work written at the HSG, the indication of the page numbers both according to the MLA and the APA standard is never optional.
- Where there are no page numbers in sources, precise references must be provided in a different way: titles of chapters or sections, section numbers, acts, scenes, verses, etc.
- For papers in law, the legal standard is recommended (by way of example, cf. FORSTMOSER, P., OGOREK R. et SCHINDLER B. (2018, Juristisches Arbeiten: Eine Anleitung für Studierende (6. Auflage), Zürich: Schulthess, or the recommendations of the Law School).
