Course information

Course prerequisites

A solid knowledge of microeconomics is required.

Learning objectives

- Students acquire state-of-the art knowledge in public economics;
- Students are able to formulate research questions and adopting appropriate research design for theory and evidence based policy making;
- Students know how to effectively communicate research insights and policy recommendations.

Course content

The lecture aims at developing analytical skills, enabling students to analyze independently public policy challenges. The course equips students with analytical tools required for economic research (e.g. a Master thesis in public economics) that meets contemporary academic standards. Summaries of empirical research and oral presentations in class help students to become professional communicators. Exercises help to apply theory in different contexts.

Taxes should be simple, fair and efficient. How can the tax system be used to achieve a more equitable distribution? How can a government design taxes to preserve incentives and contribute to better economic outcomes in terms of income and welfare? Using applied microeconomic theory, this course provides a state-of-the-art knowledge in public economics, with an emphasis on tax design and tax reform. The course prepares for further PhD studies and policy work in (inter-)national institutions.

The course covers the following topics:

1. Labor Supply
2. Income Taxation
3. Commodity Taxation
4. International Taxation
5. Unemployment, taxation and the welfare state
6. Taxation, investment and corporate finance
7. Other topics

Course structure

The course consists of weekly lectures and self studies.

Course literature

A course reading list will be provided on Canvas and includes original journal articles of empirical literature. We recommend our English manuscript (also provided on Canvas), which is based on an updated version of C. Keuschnigg, 2005, Öffentliche Finanzen: Einnahmepolitik, Tübingen.

Term papers

- Term papers must be written without anyone else's help and in accordance with the known quotation standards, and they must contain a declaration of authorship.
- The documentation of sources (quotations, bibliography) has to be done throughout and consistently in accordance with the APA or MLA standards. The indications of the sources of information taken over verbatim or in paraphrase (quotations) must be integrated into the text in accordance with the precepts of the applicable quotation standard, while informative and bibliographical notes must be added as footnotes (recommendations and standards can be found, for example, in METZGER, C. (2017), Lern- und Arbeitsstrategien (12th ed., Cornelsen Schweiz).
- For any work written at the HSG, the indication of the page numbers both according to the MLA and the APA standard is never optional.

- Where there are no page numbers in sources, precise references must be provided in a different way: titles of chapters or sections, section numbers, acts, scenes, verses, etc.
- For papers in law, the legal standard is recommended (by way of example, cf. FORSTMOSER, P., OGOREK R. et SCHINDLER B. (2018, Juristisches Arbeiten: Eine Anleitung für Studierende (6. Auflage), Zürich: Schulthess, or the recommendations of the Law School).

Supplementary aids

none.

Examination languages

Question language: English

Answer language: English

Examination content

All regulations can be found on the course outline. The written exam (60%) relates to the lecture. One empirical paper must be summarized as written home assignment and be presented in class (40%).

There might be small changes during the course. The precise contents are announced at the beginning of the semester and are continuously updated on Canvas.

Examination relevant literature

See course outline and manuscripts provided on Canvas. The English manuscript is based on C. Keuschnigg, 2005, Öffentliche Finanzen: Einnahmenpolitik, Tübingen Mohr, which is currently revised and updated.

Please note

Please note that this fact sheet alone is binding and has priority over any other information such as StudyNet (Canvas), personal databases or faculty members' websites and information provided in their lectures, etc.

Any possible references and links within the fact sheet to information provided by third parties are merely supplementary and informative in nature and are outside the University of St.Gallen's scope of responsibility and guarantee.
