Course content

The Model WTO

The Model WTO (www.model-wto.org) is a simulation of WTO negotiations. The event has been organized by student teams from the University of St.Gallen since 1997. To get a better understanding of the event, take a look at these short videos:

www.model-wto.org/model-wto/videos/

The Model WTO 2019 is expected to take place during the Easter break in the first half of April 2019. The precise dates have yet to be confirmed.

The organisers of the Model WTO indicate on their website (www.model-wto.org/model-wto/vision-and-mission) that the simulation serves to provide an opportunity for students to engage with important global issues in the simulation framework of the WTO. The active involvement of WTO officials, trade professors, institutes and well known NGOs in the field allows for a vivid debate and exchange of creative ideas in the realistic context of the World Trade Organization in Geneva.

Next year's topic has yet to be determined. For the topics of past editions and pictures, see www.modelwto.org/participants/past-editions/

Objectives of the Model WTO course of the University of St.Gallen

The Model WTO course offered at the University of St.Gallen prepares a small group of 12 Bachelor students for their role as Chairpersons of the simulation. In the autumn term, the main focus of classes will be on giving the selected students a general introduction to the objectives of the WTO, its work and structure, and the various challenges faced by the organization. One of the sessions will be held at the WTO in Geneva, with invited trade diplomats from various WTO Members. In the spring term, classes will focus on next year's topic for the Model WTO and on preparing students for the event. The participation of students as Chairpersons of the Model WTO simulation is an integral part of the course. They prepare for one specific committee, meaning one precise sub-topic of next year's topic, and are going to chair the committee's negotiations. For more information on the Chairpersons' roles, see www.model-wto.org/chairs/role/ and the videos at www.model-wto.org/model-wto/videos/.

Course structure

The course extends over two semesters, the autumn semester 2018 and the spring semester 2019. Credits are earned only upon completion of both parts of the course, that is to say, at the end of the spring semester 2019. The schedule of classes for the autumn semester 2018 is basically as follows: sessions will be held generally every fortnight (sometimes weekly) for four hours each, for a total of seven sessions. Session 5 will take place at the WTO Secretariat in Geneva. Please refer to the Stundenplan online for specific dates.

The schedule of classes for the spring term 2019 has not yet been established, but it is expected that there would be at least two (possibly three) sessions (four hours each), probably with an additional telephone conference with each Chair team.

The Model WTO (to be held in spring of 2019) extends over a full week. Full attendance during the Model WTO week will be required. It will not be possible to attend other classes during that week.

Course literature

At the beginning of the semester, mandatory readings (compiled in a reader) will be available at the Skriptenkommission and/or on StudyNet.

Additional course information

Participation in the Model WTO course is possible only through a special application process only (see above and <http://www.modelwto.org/chairs/applicationaschair/>).

Examination content

(i) Students will have to write a Chair paper in pairs on a topic that will depend on the topic for the 2019 Model WTO and the committee for which the two students are preparing. Chair papers will have to be prepared about a specific topic that is assigned in December 2018 or early in 2019 on the basis of the topic for the 2019 model WTO simulation and linked to the committee for which the students are preparing. Students may express preferences concerning the topics, but the final decision about allocating topics to students is made by the lecturer. Each Chair team will be asked to provide an outline for the assigned topic, and the lecturer will meet with each Chair team to answer questions. There may also be a telephone conference with each Chair team. Papers will have to be submitted early in the spring semester (probably around late March 2019), well before the start of the Model WTO simulation.

(ii) The written exam will include a number of practical and/or theoretical questions (not multiple choice) and covers the totality of the material covered in the course (lecture content (including slides), discussions, mandatory readings). Examples of previous examinations will be provided. The topics likely covered will be: Trade policy; The WTO's mission, structures, principles and agreements; international trade statistics and current trends; WTO trade negotiations; the WTO agenda post-Buenos Aires; RTAs; WTO dispute settlement; GATS (services); TRIPS; "Trade and ..." issues (environment, PPMs, labour rights); Development issues; WTO reform; and/or related topics. The written examination will take place in the last session of the autumn term 2018 (second half of December 2018). Examination questions will be based on class work (including the Geneva visit) and mandatory readings.

(iii) Active participation will be assessed in terms of attendance in class and the quality and quantity of active participation in class in the autumn and spring terms as well as full attendance at, and participation in, the week-long Model WTO simulation itself.

Examination relevant literature

The list of mandatory readings for the final exam corresponds to the texts collected in the reader that are indicated as mandatory readings as well as the book that will be used (D. Collins, The World Trade Organization) (will not be available from Skriptekommission, but available inexpensively e.g. here: <https://www.bookdepository.com/The-World-Trade-Organization-David-Collins/9781780745787>).

Keep in mind that the final exam is "open book".
