Course information

Course prerequisites

It is recommended that students attending the MBF research seminar have already finished their compulsory coursework. The contents of these compulsory courses are considered as prerequisites. For this seminar a basic knowledge of econometrics and corporate finance is required.

Learning objectives

In the research seminar, students undertake their own scientific research projects and learn all the main steps in this process from data collection to drawing conclusions. Students are able to discuss channels through which various corporate events (decisions) may affect company value from the theoretical perspective. They analyze these links by conducting their own empirical analysis. Students present their findings in the context of existing theoretical concepts and empirical results. They practice important skills including topic motivation, literature research, paper structuring, empirical design and execution, economic interpretation of findings, and paper presentation. The experience from the seminar and the feedback received will be very relevant for the master's thesis.

Course content

The objective of the MBF research seminar is to give students the opportunity to learn how to conduct independent and original research on a current corporate finance topic of academic interest, present the results, and receive feedback. The research seminar Corporate Finance focuses on the elaboration of current issues between corporate actions and the effect on company value. We will propose topics from areas such as payout policy, agency problems or capital structure decisions, but welcome suggestions from students, too. During the block seminar participants will be asked to present the main findings of their paper and take the role of a discussant for another paper. In addition, participation in the general discussion is expected.

Course structure

There will be an introductory session in the first week of the semester in St. Gallen. The two-day seminar sessions are currently scheduled to take place off-campus. If the situation does not allow for physically held seminars, we will switch to Zoom presentations.

1. Introductory meeting

We will provide further information on Canvas

2. Two days of seminar sessions

The date of the seminar will be announced by MBF mail before the bidding start.

Organization and bidding process

The seminar sessions of the research seminar are scheduled to take place off-campus. The travel by bus as well as the overnight stay and the catering are organized by the MBF programme. The research seminar is subsidized by the MBF corporate partners reducing the individual cost for students to CHF 100. Students will need to pay the fee of CHF 100 after registering for the seminar.

The bidding process for the seminar is organized decentral. The registration link will be distributed by MBF mail a few days before the 1st main round of the bidding begins.

Please contact Natascha John (Natascha.john@unisg.ch) in case of any questions regarding the organization and bidding process.

Course literature

Course material is provided on Canvas. Suggestions for research topics and information about the paper, presentation, and discussion will be presented and discussed in the introductory meeting.

Additional course information

- Attendance during the introductory lecture is mandatory.
- The research paper will be written in groups of four students. The number may vary slightly, depending on the class size.
- The deadline for the submission of the research paper is Wednesday, 21 April, 2021 23:59:59 CET. The paper (PDF-file) and programming code should be submitted to manuel.kathan@unisg.ch.
- Students are required to be present during all presentations and discussions.
- All students are requested to participate actively in all discussions.

In the case of the President's Board having to implement new directives due to the SARS-CoV-2 pandemic in Spring Semester 2021, the course information listed above will be changed as follows:

- The course is conducted online via Zoom
- The recordings of the course are available for 30 days

Term papers

Term papers must be written without anyone else's help and in accordance with the known quotation standards, and they must contain a declaration of authorship which is a published template in StudentWeb.

The documentation of sources (quotations, bibliography) has to be done throughout and consistently in accordance with the chosen citation standard such as APA or MLA.

For papers in law, the legal standard is recommended (by way of example, cf. FORSTMOSER, P., OGOREK R. et SCHINDLER B., Juristisches Arbeiten: Eine Anleitung für Studierende, newest edition respectively, or according to the recommendations of the Law School).

The indications of the sources of information taken over verbatim or in paraphrase (quotations) must be integrated into texts in accordance with the precepts of the applicable quotation standard, while informative and bibliographical notes must be added as footnotes (recommendations and standards can be found, for example, in METZGER, C., Lern- und Arbeitsstrategien, newest edition respectively).

For any work written at the HSG, the indication of the page numbers is mandatory independent of the chosen citation standard. Where there are no page numbers in sources, precise references must be provided in a different way: titles of chapters or sections, section numbers, acts, scenes, verses, etc.
