Learning objectives

This course has the following objectives:

- To understand the heterogeneity of corporate governance regimes as well as different board roles and practices globally;
- To be able to analyse implications of governance systems for strategic firm-level outcomes;
- To evaluate and appraise practical cases of corporate governance.

Course content

Corporate governance refers to the system by which companies are directed, controlled and made accountable. Corporate governance matters to corporate executives, investors, business partners, employees, labour leaders, politicians and regulatory bodies. Governance systems and philosophies vary across countries. Likewise, the question of what constitutes “effective” governance is a moving target, subject to alternative interpretations by different actors, as well as to changing interpretations over time.

In this course, we will focus on one of the most prominent actors in corporate governance - the Board of Directors. The primary responsibility of board members is to balance the interests of the company, shareholders and other stakeholders by pursuing long-term growth that is sustainable and profitable. This course will explore how and why national corporate governance contexts and board practices vary across countries. For example, the “Rhineland model” in continental Europe has traditionally emphasised bank lending over equity financing - with important consequences for ownership structures and governance models of European firms. Other characteristics such as the two-tier system or employee representation result in unique board structures and incentives.

We will explore similarities and differences in various features of corporate boards and discuss implications for corporate strategy and performance. We will discuss specific corporate governance cases and scandals, and explore their antecedents and consequences. At the end of this highly interactive course, participants will be able to appreciate the heterogeneity of corporate governance contexts and better understand board-level strategic leadership of companies.

Course structure

The course is divided in six half-day sessions. Most sessions will start with a lecture part. Afterwards, participants will be presented with a recent/unique development in corporate governance and evaluate implications for board practice and effectiveness. In the final session, groups of participants will analyse an integrative case which combines key elements of the course.

Course literature
All details on readings (incl. case studies) will be provided on StudyNet.

Remark

Examination-aid rule
Term papers

Term papers must be written without anyone else’s help and in accordance with the known quotation standards, and they must contain a declaration of authorship which is a published template in StudentWeb.

The documentation of sources (quotations, bibliography) has to be done throughout and consistently in accordance with the chosen citation standard such as APA or MLA.

For papers in law, the legal standard is recommended (by way of example, cf. FORSTMOSER, P., OGOREK R. et SCHINDLER B., Juristisches Arbeiten: Eine Anleitung für Studierende, newest edition respectively, or according to the recommendations of the Law School).

The indications of the sources of information taken over verbatim or in paraphrase (quotations) must be integrated into texts in accordance with the precepts of the applicable quotation standard, while informative and bibliographical notes must be added as footnotes (recommendations and standards can be found, for example, in METZGER, C., Lern- und Arbeitsstrategien, newest edition respectively.

For any work written at the HSG, the indication of the page numbers is mandatory independent of the chosen citation standard.
Where there are no page numbers in sources, precise references must be provided in a different way: titles of chapters or sections, section numbers, acts, scenes, verses, etc.
