Course information

Course prerequisites

PromO07: Doctoral colloquia can only be attended if the coursework stage has been successfully completed.

PromO016/O017: One doctoral colloquium can be attended prior to completion of the coursework stage. A second, respectively a third doctoral colloquium can only be attended if the coursework stage has been successfully completed.

Learning objectives

- PhD students are able to communicate the contents developed within the framework of their dissertation to a specialist audience.
- PhD students are able to give critical yet constructive feedback on scientific texts.

Course content

The participants present parts and questions from their dissertation. These contributions may, of course, have different degrees of maturity; both initial research questions and already advanced manuscripts can be presented. Both for the presenters and for the other participants, conscientious preparation of the dates is obligatory and contributes significantly to the success of this format.

Course structure and indications of the learning and teaching design

The course will be offered on three dates throughout the semester.

Course literature

The course literature will be announced depending on the composition of the topics.
